

AN ERROR.

Warden Bell is making a very creditable record for himself in the management of the State Prison. According to his report, the earnings of the prisoners came within $424 of covering the expenses of the institution for that month. The expenses for the month were $2,735, and the earnings $2,371. If our public institutions were in equally good hands, the cost of our State government would be materially reduced from present figures.—Virginia Chronicle.

Warden Bell is making a very creditable record, but he is not doing anywhere near as well as represented in the above. It is absurd to claim that the earnings are within $424 of the entire expense, and such a statement could be made only by confounding the figures of the boot and shoe business with those of the general maintenance account, which may have been done by taking from an item in Thursday's JOURNAL. The November report of the Prison shows the expense to have been $2,793 14, which is the lowest of any month for several years, about $300 less than Warden Bell's average, his average so far being less than any other Warden. The $2,317 16 is the amount of money he collected and paid into the State Treasury during November on account of the boot and shoe business, but whatever profit there was would not exceed $150. The boot and shoe account is an entirely separate one from the general account, and while he is making the factory pay something over and above the cost of the manufacture, that profit is not very large. It is satisfactory to know that he is making a profit. The present actual cost of maintaining the Prison is not far from $3,500 per month, or $42,000 per annum, or about $7,000 less than under Gardner, or $12,000 under Buttermann. It is possible that Mr. Bell will make a showing of $40,000 per annum, but as close as he is running it, the figures will not be below that sum. Should this be so he will only use $80,000 of the $100,000 appropriated by the Legislature for the fiscal years 1893-94. But the Prison at Carson will never be run for less than $30,000 per annum. At Reno it can be got down to $15,000, and properly "dovetailed" in with the Asylum would not exceed $10,000.

ARIZONA-GOV. TRITLE'S REPORT.

The JOURNAL is in receipt of Governor Tritle's report for 1893. It shows that the advancement of the Territory, both with regard to wealth in the development of profitable industries and increase of population, has been remarkable. The Territory now claims 75,000 people, and over $20,000,000 of taxable property. The mining, grazing and agricultural interests are progressing wonderfully, extensive railroad enterprises have been completed, and others are projected, while the affairs of the Territory generally are in an exceedingly prosperous condition. Governor Tritle offers some very valuable suggestions. He wants the Government to give Arizona the privilege Nevada enjoys of selecting a number of acres in lieu of the 16th and 38th sections for school purposes. He asks that the Territory be extended the same benefits Colorado has in relation to irrigation by artesian process. He also desires a Branch Mint and a Capitol building. He recommends an increase in the pay of members of the Legislature from $4 to $6 per day, and also wishes a fourth United States Judge. The report is an excellent one in every respect, and reflects credit upon the Nevada Governor of Arizona.

Our Indian War Claims.

Representative Henley, of the Third California District, will introduce in the House a bill authorizing the payment to California, Oregon and Nevada of the principal and interest of the money advanced by those States to suppress Indian hostilities.

Hon. H. K. Houanna, has resigned the office of Judge of the Lake county (Oregon) District Court. The reason assigned is the salary is wholly inadequate to support his family.

It is believed that Denis Nevin will not be able to file a new, good and sufficient bond, and that the Commissioners of Storey county will soon declare the office vacant.

The Bonanza Firm's Investment.

Tucson is in a blaze of enthusiasm over the purchase of the Quijota mines Thursday by J. W. Mackay and J. C. Flood. The sale was negotiated by W. S. Lyle, of San Francisco, who takes an interest with them. The price paid is $450,000. The mines are located eighty miles southwest of Tucson. They were discovered last May. The purchase was made on the report of J. N. Low, W. H. Patton and Hank Smith, who are acknowledged to be the best experts on the coast. They report nothing was ever discovered on the Pacific Coast equal to it outside the Comstock. The purchasers will commence operations at once on an extensive scale, putting up the most approved machinery for developing and working the ore.

Thus far the Democratic majority in the House works harmoniously. It is plain that none of Carlisle's friends will attempt to dispute Randall's leadership on the floor, and he told a correspondent Thursday that the majority will be found acting as a unit upon all questions likely to engage the attention of Congress this session. Randall's friends seem to be reconciled to their defeat, and the champions of the Kentuckian are not disposed to boast over their victory. Carlisle's moderate speech upon taking the chair, and the private declaration of his henchmen, have inspired the Democratic Representatives from the North and East with the hope that there will be no radical changes in the tariff this session. The President's message, opposing any plan at the present time for a further reduction of the national revenue, has had its effect upon those gentlemen who anticipated an entirely different suggestion from the Chief Magistrate. The Democrats from those Western States which have no manufactures or industries of any importance, feel that they have fulfilled the wishes of their constituents in voting for the election of a revenue reform Speaker, and they are not, on the whole, particularly anxious to dig under an overturn the entire tariff system. When the Speaker announces his Ways and Means Committee the public can form a better idea of what is in store for the future regarding tariff legislation. Ten days or two weeks will probably elapse before the Committees are made up, and very little work will be done by Congress until after the holiday recess.

Senator Miller, of California, has introduced a bill requiring the proper accounting officer of the Treasury to settle the claims of the States of California, Oregon and Nevada (and Nevada when a Territory) against the United States for interest, on loans or moneys actually expended by them for the use and benefit of the United States during the war of the Rebellion and Indian hostilities in said States. In ascertaining the amounts in said States and Territory, it is provided that it shall not be computed on any sums which California, Oregon and Nevada have not expended for the use and benefit of the United States evidenced by the amount refunded or repaid or to be refunded to said State by the United States. No interest shall be paid on any sum on which they have not paid interest. When the principal or any part of it has been paid or refunded by the United States, or money placed in the hands of California, Oregon or Nevada (and Nevada when a Territory) for that purpose, the interest on the sum or sums so paid or refunded shall cease and not be considered as chargeable to the United States any longer than up to the time of the repayment.

The reorganization of the Senate of floor continues to be the principal topic of discussion among Senators. While the Virginia Senators would prefer the nomination of Gorham, they will not refuse to vote for the election of any good man who may be nominated for Secretary. These gentlemen are named for the place: Ex-Representative McCook, of New York; Edward McPherson, of Pennsylvania, late Clerk of the House of Representatives, and James R. Young, of Philadelphia, formerly Executive Clerk of the Department of Justice. McCook is not an applicant for the place; and has written his friends in the Senate that he does not desire the office. Some Senators think, however, that he can be persuaded to enter the race.

Judge Osborne, of Indiana, has instructed the Grand Jury to indict all dealers found selling the Police Gazette and other papers of that class.

MR. SPEAKER.

The Man and Office Historically Treated.

(S. F. Chronicle.)

Whatever may be popularly thought of the President of the United States as the chief of the political party which elects him, the history of the country shows that the Speaker of the House, if he be a man of much force of character, is the real leader of the party to which he belongs. The House here, as the House of Commons in England, is the great political power. It initiates most legislation and as to appropriations and ways and means to carry on the Government, it has the exclusive right to originate all bills for such purposes, though the Senate may amend or even reject them under our Constitution, which latter the House of Peers may not do without peril of a national convulsion. By examining the list of Speakers with reference to the States they represented, we may pretty accurately understand which section of the Union dominated the policy of the Government from the first to the present [Forty eighth] Congress. From the first to the end of the sixth Congress, or from the inauguration of President Washington to the incoming of President Jefferson, the Speakers were all from States north of the Mason and Dixon line. With President Jefferson came in Nathaniel Macon of North Carolina as Speaker of the Seventh Congress. He was re-elected the Eighth and Ninth, but at the Tenth a Massachusetts man became Speaker, namely, Joseph B. Varnum, who was re-elected by the Eleventh Congress, going out March 4th, 1811, in the middle of President Madison's first term. He was succeeded by Henry Clay, of Kentucky, who served as Speaker of the Twelfth and Thirteenth Congresses, from March 4th, 1811, to January 19th, 1814. And Mr. Clay was the popular leader of the war element of the war of 1812, which was agitated with extreme violence a year before it was declared. Clay, in January, 1813, was appointed one of the Commissioners of Ghent to negotiate the treaty of peace with Great Britain, and James, of South Carolina, succeeded him as Speaker till the close of the Thirteenth Congress, March 4th, 1815. At the next Congress Clay was returned to the House and again elected its Speaker, which position he continued to hold through that, the next and to the end of the first session of the Sixteenth Congress, in 1820. He was again elected Speaker of the Eighteenth Congress December 1st, 1823, serving to March 4th, 1825, when he was called by President John Q. Adams to the post of Secretary of State. No other man had served so often or so long in the speakership as Mr. Clay.

The backbone of the Adams party was broken by the election of Andrew Jackson to the Presidency in 1828, and after that for a dozen years and more the Speakers were the most prominent leaders of the Democratic party, among them James K. Polk, of Tennessee, and R. M. T. Hunter, of Virginia. Still later, and after the overthrow of the Democrats in 1840 by the defeat of Van Buren for the Presidency, the House, being Democratic, elected such notable Democratic leaders as Howell Cobb, of Georgia, and Lynn B. Lynd, of Kentucky, its Speakers. After the beginning of the civil war, the majority of the Democrats of the House having seceded therefrom, that body became thoroughly Republican, and Colfax, of Indiana, then a very popular politician, whatever he may be now, was elected and re-elected Speaker from December 7, 1863, to March 4, 1869, when he became Vice President and went over to the other chamber. His successor was James G. Blaine, of Maine. Mr. Blaine had served through three Congresses at the time (March 4, 1869,) when he was elected Speaker. He was twice re-elected, and his term of service as Speaker did not close till March 4, 1875. The Democrats secured the Forty-fourth Congress, and Michael Kerr, a conspicuous leader of the Western Democracy, was made the Speaker. Dying in office, he was succeeded by the ablest and most popular House leader of the party, Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania, who was twice re-elected and held the place to the end of the Forty-sixth Congress, when his party, in the succeeding election, lost the House and Keifer, (R.) of Ohio, was made the Speaker. Again, in this Forty-eighth Congress, the Democrats are in the majority, in the House, and, as we have just seen, have returned to the South for their Speaker.

As a general rule the Speaker has been the popular leader of his party, as in the instances of Clay for the old Republicans and after them for the Whigs; Polk, Boyd, Howell Cobb, Stevenson, of Virginia, and Hunter, of the same State, for the Democrats, and Blaine for the Republicans. But to this there have been exceptions. Neither Keifer nor Carlisle were ever taken by their respective parties as leaders, nor Galusha A. Grout, of Pennsylvania, nor James L. Orr, of South Carolina, nor Pennington, of New Jersey. These have been chance Speakers, rather ruled by the party they belonged to than ruling or shaping its policy. It is a significant part of the history of the Speakership that of all the Speakers elected by the Democratic party since Jackson's first term down to and including Carlisle, there were but two from States north of the Mason and Dixon line, namely, Kerr, of Indiana, and Randall, of Pennsylvania, and it is probable that neither Kerr nor Randall could have succeeded with the party but for the deep brand of suspicion which the public had set upon all Southern States Democrats from the time of their secession and treason. No sooner do we see this brand overgrown by the hair of time than the party returns again to the control of its Southern bosses, and its free trade craze, generated by a jealousy of Northern manufacturing prosperity under the policy of protection, of which Henry Clay, the citizen of the same State with Carlisle, was the father. Of the 106 caucus votes cast for Carlisle, seventy-two were from the South and but thirty-four from the Northern, Western and Pacific States. Of the fifty-two votes cast for Randall, but twenty were from the South and thirty-two from other States.

Republican Representation.

To remove in some measure what is regarded by many as a very grave injustice, in the representation of the Republican National conventions, which gives States and Districts all over the country the same voice, regardless of Republican votes, when in some districts in the South, even the form of nominating Republican candidates to Congress is not pursued, Senator Frye, a member of the Republican National Committee, will propose at the next meeting, December 16th, a new basis of representation, as follows: Each State to be entitled to four delegates, as now, each district to one instead of two, as now; to one additional delegate for each ten thousand cast within its limits in 1880 for the Republican candidates for Presidential electors, and to one additional delegate for a majority of a fraction of ten thousand votes. Votes for Presidential electors is taken as the real strength of the party, and being less liable to be effected by local causes. The effect of this proposition will not materially change the relative strength of the several States, and will only increase the total membership of the convention fifty. California, Colorado and Nevada will remain unchanged. Oregon will gain one delegate. The Northern States will be increased.

An Innocent Man in San Quentin.

Three years ago Robert Peacock, a married man, living in Oakland, California, was arrested, charged with felonious assault on Edith Martin, eight years old. He was convicted and sentenced to San Quentin for 14 years. Mrs. Martin, the mother of the girl, is now lying at death's door, and has just confessed that the arrest and conviction of Peacock was the result of a conspiracy between her, Mrs. Peacock and a man named Cobb; and that he is absolutely innocent of the crime with which he was charged. Cobb was intimate with Peacock's wife. Mrs. Martin says she was induced to enter into the scheme by an offer of money, and between them they instructed the child to make the charge and swear to it. The strange part of the whole proceeding is that at the time of trial, in Oakland, physicians testified to an attempted outrage on the child having been committed. The unfortunate man, Peacock, has already served three years of the sentence imposed. It is stated that steps will be taken to obtain his release.

General Hancock Crossing the Continent.

General Hancock's visit to San Francisco is on military business. He left New York on Monday evening in a private car. He arrived at Chicago Wednesday and after a stay for a few hours left for San Francisco. The General has never been to San Francisco by rail. He has gone by the Overland route, and he hopes to derive much pleasure from his trip. It was his expectation to stay in San Francisco a few weeks, then go to Los Angeles and Santa Barbara.

A few days ago two brothers, named Wirges, were found murdered in their cabin at Maine Bar, on the Middle Fork of the American river. On Saturday last a Mexican was arrested on suspicion of having committed the crime, and since being taken to Placerville has confessed his guilt. It is believed that he was also the murderer of Muldoon, on the road between Auburn and Forest Hill a few days previously.

MISCELLANEOUS.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, SCROFULA, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system. For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the CATARRH true remedy. It has cured numerous cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharge, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

"Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882.

ULCEROUS "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on the face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore. Physicians told us that a powerful cathartic medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly,
B. F. JOHNSON."

Tom Hymers received notice from New York yesterday announcing the fact that a $2,000 hearse had been shipped to his address. It may possibly have a tendency to soften the terrors of death to know that a $2,000 hearse is waiting to carry you to the bone yard.

THE ASYLUM.

THE BERGSTEIN-BISHOP WAR

Abstract of the Testimony Given Before the Board of Commissioners.

The investigation of the charges preferred by Dr. Bergstein against Superintendent Bishop, of the Insane Asylum, began at the Asylum on Thursday, before the Board of Commissioners, all the members being present except Lieutenant-Governor Laughton. Gov. Adams, Controller Hallock, Treasurer Tufts, W. E. F. Deal and G. W. Huffaker were present, and Wells Drury, Deputy Secretary of State, acted as Secretary of the Board.

R. H. Lindsay represented Dr. Bishop. Tremor Coffin appeared for Dr. Bishop at the request of his friends. Dr. Bergstein called for all the books, which were brought in by W. L. Marsden, commissary and clerk. He was sworn. His duty was to receive and account for goods, and see that they were economically used; to see the patients provided with food, and keep the books. He read the rules to show what was expected of him. He performed the duties, except as to the conduct of the farm, which Dr. Bishop relieved him of. Dr. Bergstein asked him if he understood the relations between Dr. Bishop and himself. He said he thought so. He had traveled between Virginia and Reno trying to make them. As commissary, he had no specific work, but all his time was occupied. In answer to Mr. Lindsay, Gov. Adams said it was the desire of the Board to learn everything pertaining to the institution.

Dr. Bergstein said he wanted the facts to show that attendants had been retained who neglected their duties. Mr. Marsden said he received goods and checked them off, but did not enter them. He kept the bills of Landley & Co., and checked them off in the evening. When there is a large amount he keeps a memorandum to compare with the bill. Sometimes the bills may have lain several days. When Dr. Bergstein came, he directed that every article taken out of the stores be charged. I found it impracticable to do so, and now make the charges once a month, which shows what is used. Dr. Bergstein showed in the books an entry of goods delivered June 30th, by John Bowman, of $122 25, without being itemized. Mr. Marsden testified that he could not give the items on that bill. Dr. Bergstein asked if the last item on that bill was not a dozen chickens; he also asked if the bill for cigars, used when the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows visited the Asylum, was on the books. Dr. Bergstein suggested that the dozen chickens was in fact two boxes of cigars. In the journal, page 135 is blank. Mr. Marsden explained that it was left blank because he had not the bills that belonged there. On page 114, Martin & Augustine's bill in May, for lard and zinc on rooms, was $90; Dr. Bergstein asked if the rooms were completed when the bill was paid. In August their bill was allowed for 12 days labor. Dr. Bergstein thought that that was the same labor paid for in May. An account is kept of the property of each patient that enters. Mason's account shows 60 cents. Dr. Bergstein showed an error in the trial balance, and a forced balance, which Mr. Marsden said he was aware of, but allowed it to stand rather than erase it. His next balance proved his books correct. On May 18th John Sunderland delivered some pegs and a pair of lasts. Mr. Madden offered to bring in the lasts, but Dr. B. objected, unless he could swear to their identity. I am in charge when Dr. Bishop is away. If anyone is sick I telephone for Dr. Bergman. When he (Bishop) went to Pyramid, Dr. Bergman was here nearly all day. No one was here when Dr. Bishop went to Long Valley. I remember one day there was a noise in a ward, and found Harry Slaven, a patient, struggling with George Simpson; Simpson put him out of the ward by force. Dr. B. asked if Simpson did not put his fingers inside the collar of his clothes, and jerked him down stairs. "Did not Dr. Bishop say, 'That's right, George, make him go where you want him to?'" Witness did not remember that. I get up about 8 o'clock, but sometimes lie in bed till later. The wards are to be cleaned up before 10 o'clock, by an order from Dr. Bergstein. No one banged at my door for two hours to get me up. The butcher comes at 6 o'clock; I don't always weigh the meat; liquor is not permitted; most of the attendants have brought it—have; George Avery and Madden have also done so.

Mrs. Walker, the matron, testified that no abuses had been perpetrated in the ward over which she had control.

M. Nathan and John Sunderland both testified that in July Dr. Bergstein threatened to resign, and that they consulted with Bishop, and the matter was arranged, and Bergstein and Bishop reconciled, although Bishop refused to recede from his position; that Bergstein was dissatisfied because Bishop had refused to permit a woman patient to longer attend to Bergstein's rooms, on the ground that she was "a tattler and mischief-maker." At this time Bergstein also expressed himself disgusted with the manner in which other things were going on.

N. P. Jaques, of Martin & Augustine, was examined, and testified concerning certain charges for zinc and work on the same, swearing that no illegal charge had been made or paid.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS

Mrs. Walker testified she never abused a patient and never saw one abused.

Ellen Friese declared that everything proper was done for the patients. No severe punishment was ever inflicted upon them.

Henry Johnson saw nothing brutal in the treatment of Ben. Franklin.

Lucius Cox testified that everything done on the farm was properly done, and that Bishop gave him every facility to attend to things properly.

Alex Case admitted that he took a drink occasionally, and that Bergstein had given him whisky once.

O. H. Tufts was the last witness examined. He testified that everything in and around the Institution was conducted in a first-class manner. That all the building improvements had been as well and as cheaply done as could have been performed by a private individual.

It is expected that the investigation will be concluded to-day. Dr. Bergstein will be the first witness this morning.

Board adjourned till 10 A. M. this morning.

A Knotty Question.

The minds of the sporting fraternity here and elsewhere are exercised over a question pertaining to their business which is liable to find its way into the Courts for final solution. The question is this: Is the game poitely designated as "equine poker" of a character calculated to bring it within the purview of the license law of the State? Some maintain that it is, while others say it is not. As none of our county officers are expected to be posted on questions of this nature, nor the average citizen either, should the case be carried into the Courts the chances are that the judge would find some difficulty in obtaining a jury in this county competent to pass upon the question, and might have to transfer the case to the ungodly town of Carson and submit it to a jury of old sports.

At the meeting of Reno Chapter, No. 7, R. A. M., held Thursday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: R. L. Falton, High Priest; Wm. Webster, King; G. H. Fogg, Scribe; H. H. W. Higgins is talking of getting up an excursion to Boca. Those who go will had the skating first-class. It will wind up with a dance at Pete Comstock's Boca Hotel. The excursion will take place to-night or Monday night, as next week the ice will be badly cut up.

The Carson Mint

In his annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury, the Director of the Carson Mint says the following encouraging words about that institution: "The Mint continued in operation the entire year, the receipts of gold and silver having increased about 35 per cent. over those of the previous year. There was also an increase in the coinage from $1,546, $10 to 2,532,945. This institution is of advantage to miners and mine owners in that portion of Nevada where it is located, in affording a local market for their Silver production, as well as a convenient means of obtaining the value of their gold bullion in coin or bars."
